For the Saturday Gazette.

Oul aut of flowers that will tell A tale of compliment to eye, Or cheek, or smile; nor yet to dwell, With metaphor, oh fancied sigh.

For though 'tis sweet thus to be told, And quickened glance, suffusing cheek The self-same smile, and sigh unfold A truth, my lips are scaled to speak;

Yet they are flowers for a day, To wither, die, and leave to me No slient comfort to rupay The secret treasures they set free.

And is my life so poorly read That I apart from it must tell The wish I fain would have unsaid, Save through its silent acts? ah, well,-

Some simple flower let it be, To bloom perpetual in my heart, And breathe a fragrant constancy, Till life and it shall both depart.

Joy is for all men. It does not depend on circumstances or condition; if it did, it could be only for a few. It is not the fruit of good luck or of fortune, or even of outward success, which all men cannot have. It is of the soul or the soul's character; it is the wealth of the soul's own being, when it is filled with the spirit of Jesus, which is the spirit of eternal love-
